Why Buttons Come Off.

Sometimes because they are not sewed on strongly, sometimes because the buttons break or give way, but more frequently in the case of hard buttons, because the thread is cut by roughness in the button's eyes. Sometimes it is an alternative whether the button shall give way or the cloth—if the cloth gives way the button goes too—so it is better the button should go alone. Here is matter for reflection. The buttons on my custom made pants, some of which are on sale in my ready made store, made up during the dull season, never come off. They have bushed holes and do not cut the thread. If you want a first class article try my

THE PALAIS ROYAL!

LOSES ITS PROPRIETOR.

MR. LISNER sails for Europe on the 30th instant on the Werra, of the Bremen Line. Mr. Lisner, when he bid us good-by, said he was going to surprise us on his return by bringing with him an array of European Novelties, such as Washington has never yet seen. We, in our turn, want to surprise him on his return by being able to give an account of business done that shall far exceed his expectations. To that end we are going to work hard, to that end we are going to sell very cheap, and to that end we extend a cordial invitation to our
